The Pennsylvania Railroad company will complete a third track through East Liverpool for the accommodation of shippers if permission to cross street intersections is granted by the city, council was told last night by officials of The Patterson Foundry & Machine and the Homer Laughlin companies.

R. L. Cawood, president of the Patterson company, who conferred with the lawmakers prior to their meeting, said that his plant was handicapped in its operations through the inability of the railroad company to move cars from the siding. Switching operations, particularly in the East End, present a serious problem, railroad officials say, because of the heavy freight traffic over the two main tracks. Often shifting crew are idle for hours while freight trains are passing.

Not a Word of Sense.

Marvels of the Radio.

More Senate Sunshine.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

DEAR old lady from Sligo wishing to pay the highest possible compliment to the wife of an editor, said, "It's the wonderful articles your husband writes, and nobody can make a word of sense out of it but himself."

PROF. EINSTEIN'S own explanation of his new scientific discovery takes twice as many words as the discovery itself, whatever it may be, and surely no one can make a word of sense out of it but himself.

CREATING your own system of geometry is the latest scientific fad. Prof. Einstein has his own geometry and works with it.

One of the new systems tells you that the angles of a triangle are not necessarily equal to two right angles.

IT REMINDS you of the "gentleman's game" of poker. Players were not asked to show their hands. Mr. Kabbible, asked how he came out, replied, "How could I lose."

PROF. EINSTEIN'S new theory calls forth the interesting statement that "the energy relation between an electron and its nucleus generates an helioidal carrier of energy. These carriers travel without axial motion. The transverse vibration inherent in these forces gives rise to the phenomena of light."

Perfectly simple. That's all that happens when you light a match.

THE radio possesses an importance and value not fully realized. You hear sailors telling of "scutes at sea," or the President urging economy on the nation, or reminding you that prosperity is good only if spirituality is mixed with it.

MUSIC played in England is heard in Alaska, children wait for the hour devoted to them, and special programs are prepared for children in public schools.

To exaggerate what the radio will do for education and general enlightenment is impossible. A house without a radio set might as well be a house without a window.

THOMAS HASTINGS, who built the public library in New York, and got a gold medal from King George for being the best architect, has made plans to remodel the Capitol.

FIVE DOCTORS AT BEDSIDE OF MARSHAL FOCH

French War Hero's Condition Reported Serious.

HOPE IS WANING

Physicians Refuse to Talk; No Bulletin
Issued.

PARIS, Feb. 5.—Although it was reported earlier in the day that Marshal Ferdinand Foch was recovering from a sudden attack of indigestion, International News Service learned from an authoritative source this afternoon that the aged soldier's condition is really serious.

The marshal has been suffering from heart and kidney trouble complicated by a touch of the gripe. Indigestion developed after he had taken some milk last night.

Five doctors held a consultation at the bedside at 11 o'clock this morning.

Upon their departure, all the doctors refused to make any statement. No bulletin was issued.

Dr. Heitz-Boyer, who was hastily summoned to the bedside just before midnight, was one of the doctors at the consultation.

"The marshal's condition is stationary," Dr. Heitz-Boyer said.

It is reported that members of the Foch household have virtually given up hope. One member of the household was quoted as saying: "We are afraid he will not live out the week."

BELIZE, British Honduras, Feb. 5.—Col Charles A. Lindbergh, who is making the inaugural flight of a new airmail service from the United States to the Panama Canal Zone, hopped off for Tela, Honduras, at 8:12 a. m. (9:12 a. m. Eastern standard time).

A big crowd witnessed the take off. After rising from the water the plane circled the Newtown barracks, then turned and sped southward down the coast while the people cheered and waved hats and handkerchiefs.

Lindbergh, who began his flight at Miami, Fla., yesterday morning flying here by way of Havana, spent the night in Belize. After refueling at Tela he will continue to Managua, Nicaragua, where he will spend tonight. He will complete his journey to Cristobal, Canal Zone, tomorrow.

Double Honors Paid.

All of Belize turned out to honor the famous American flier, who paid his second visit to Belize. He was here about a year ago on his "good will" flight over Latin-America. He landed in the Hijo here at 2:55 o'clock yesterday afternoon (3:55 Eastern standard time) after successfully flying the first 750-mile leg of his long and venturesome flight.

Double honors were paid to "Lindy" upon his arrival. He was congratulated and entertained not only in honor of his splendid flying achievement but in recognition of his 27th birthday.

Lindbergh had planned to leave at dawn this morning, but his hop off was delayed somewhat.

WOMAN DISCOVERED MANGLED IN WRECKAGE AFTER MAN IS FOUND

Pool Room Owner and Former Football Player,
At Wheel of Automobile, Fails to Hear Approach of Two Locomotives as He Leaves
Home of Mother.

Mrs. Esther Heckathorn, 33, Bank street, was killed, and her husband, William J. Heckathorn, 36, Toronto pool room owner and former football player, perhaps fatally injured when an east-bound, two-locomotive C. & P. freight train crashed into their motor coupe at the Clark street crossing, Toronto, at 10:35 o'clock last night.

Mrs. Heckathorn, pinned in the wreckage of the automobile, was mangled. Her left leg was severed at the hip and her right leg and right arm broken. Her husband, who was hurled clear of the tracks, was crushed about the chest.

Mr. and Mrs. Heckathorn, who have been living with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Ferguson, Bank street, were preparing to move to Toronto, having rented an apartment in the Silverman building in which the husband's pool room is located. They had visited with the husband's mother, Mrs. Julia Heckathorn, in Clark street, Toronto, just before the accident occurred.

Wreckage on Locomotive.
Heckathorn, at the wheel of the automobile, is believed to have failed to hear the approaching freight train enroute from Mingo to Canton and Crestline, and drove to the unprotected crossing directly in front of the locomotive.

The coupe was crushed between the train and a curb at one side of the track, the wreckage being carried on the tender of the first locomotive for almost a city block before the train stopped.

Heckathorn was carried into a nearby store. Dazed by the accident he said that he was the only occupant in the car. A few minutes later the body of his wife was found under a gondola car, about eight feet east of the point where the automobile had been struck.

Victim Leaves Two Children.

The injured man was taken to the Steubenville hospital, while Mrs. Heckathorn's body was taken to a morgue in Toronto.

Harry Allman, Bellaire, and Charles Diddy, Mingo, were the engineers on the two locomotives, while C. J. Weldereith, of New Philadelphia was the conductor. The front locomotive was damaged by the collision.

The Heckathorns were married about two years ago. Until a few months ago, when they moved to Bank street, they lived at 149 West Second street. Heckathorn was formerly employed as a truck driver for the Standard Oil company, Toronto.

Mrs. Heckathorn is survived by two children, Winifred Burns, 16, and Ronald Burns, 14, by a former marriage.

SOUL-WINNING IS DEFINED BY REV. S. E. WEST

Free Methodist Pastor
Hits Church Member Stealing.

PERIOD OF SONG

Rev. D. W. Rose, New
Brighton, Pa., Here
Tonight.

"To steal members from other churches already established is not soul-winning," asserted the Rev. S. E. West, pastor, at the Free Methodist church revival in Avondale street last night. "It is rather to bring souls to Jesus Christ. His subject was 'The Soul Winner.'"

His discourse was based on the affirmation. "He that winneth souls is wise," and was one of the sermons which he uses on the same text. "There are sheep thieves who seem to delight to build a mansion from ruins derived from their neighbors' houses," he commented in disclosing his notion of what really constituted soul-winning. "It is not genuine soul-winning by going in for addition of members on church rolls in order to point out a great increase in membership."

"Soul-winning is not performed by multiplication or baptismal departures that may tend to disclose the size of a church. Neither does it consist in reports that so many souls were under conviction, so many justified or so many fully sanctified, but rather does it include a definite, discernible change of heart."

"To thoroughly instruct people accurately in the word of God so that they actually understand it, causing their emotions to be stirred, not to an excitable tendency, but to a spiritual discernment which enables the spirit of God to work upon the spirit of man sufficiently to cause a change of viewpoint and action on the part of the latter makes real soul-winning."

At the conclusion of his sermon the church members were called to the altar in a body for a rededication in the project at hand of soul-winning. An inspiring period of song preceded the address of the minister.

Beginning tonight the Rev. D. W. Rose, district superintendent of New Brighton, Pa., will deliver the first of a series of three sermons to the congregation. During his stay in the city he will be a guest at the home of the Rev. Mr. West in Avondale street.

Chief officer Harry Manning says: "Reach for a Lucky instead of a sweet."

"WHEN I climbed aboard the 'America' after those cold, strenuous hours getting the men off the freighter 'Florida,' there was nothing I wanted so much as a Lucky—'By George,' it tasted wonderful! A Lucky is always refreshing. My tense nerves relaxed, my aching throat was soothed and the whole thrilling adventure just seemed a part of the day's work. As time goes by, and I look back to that memorable night, I'll always remember the wonderful taste of that welcome Lucky. As I went around to visit the men we'd rescued, I found many of them enjoying Luckies, too. We really couldn't wait to get back to our ship and 'Luckies.' As an actual fact in returning to the 'America' I noticed one of our men* rowing with one hand and lighting a Lucky with the other. There's no flavor to equal toasted tobaccos, and I always prefer Lucky Strikes. There's wisdom in the saying: 'Reach for a Lucky instead of a sweet.' It helps a man to keep physically fit and we who follow the sea must always be prepared for any emergency."

Proposal Lifts State Hands From City Rein

Hugus Resolution Introduced in Senate Would Give Municipalities Conduct of Own Affairs.

CHESTER, W. Va., Feb. 5.—Powers in municipal matters now vested solely with the state legislature would be given directly to the voters under the terms of a joint resolution introduced in the state senate yesterday at Charleston by State Senator Wright Hugus, of Ohio county.

Under the terms of the resolution, the procedure of adopting a new city charter would be started by a decision by a two thirds vote of the city's ruling body that a new charter was necessary. Following that decision and the preparation of a petition signed by 10 per cent of the voters, the question of establishing a commission to frame the charter would be submitted at a regular or special election. If the proposal for a new charter was approved by the voters, a further election would be held to name nine persons as a charter-framing commission. Those commissioners, the bill provides, would be nominated by petition of two per cent of the voters.

Third Election Necessary.
Following election of the commission, that body would draft a proposed charter, which under the resolution's terms, would then be submitted to the voters at an election, the date of which would be determined by the commission, but would be at least 30 days from the date of the charter's adoption by the commission and not more than one year from the election of the commissioners.

Amendments to existing charters would be made, under the provisions of the resolution, by submission by the city's legislative body of the proposed amendment to the voters.

Would Levy Own Taxes.
The resolution would also empower the municipalities to levy and assess taxes; borrow money and levy special assessments for benefits furnished all local public services; make all local improvements, and obtain land by condemnation or otherwise; issue and sell bonds; organize and administer schools and libraries and adopt the enforce local zoning, police, sanitary and other regulations.

REV. J. H. HUFF CITES NEED OF "NEW BIRTH"

Illinois Evangelist at Chester Nazarene Church.

R. T. EBY SINGS

Rev. James F. Ward, Pastor, Assists in Services.

Continuing his engagement at the Nazarene church in Chester, W. Va., the Rev. J. H. Huff, of Olivet, Ill. spoke of "The New Birth" to the large number attending the revival services last night.

He was assisted in the preliminary exercises by the Rev. James H. Ward, pastor.

The singing was in charge of R. T. Eby, accompanied by the evangelist's daughter, Miss Olive Huff, assisting in the added week of the series of meetings.

Eby sang for his nightly solo "Ye Must Be Born Again."

"The new birth of the individual soul is a fundamental doctrine in the church's life," the Rev. Mr. Huff said. "As physical life begins with physical birth so does the spiritual life have its inception in spiritual birth which is known as new in that it occurs after the first one."

Explains New Birth.
"The new birth makes for the supernatural life in that it represents that at the end of one's tongue and toe. For, living it, there are different words expressed by the former and changed action of movement in the latter."

"That Nicodemus, who went to Jesus for instruction by night, was glad to hear that Gentiles had to be born again but he was not pleased to hear that such as he needed this spiritual change also," the evangelist indicated.

"Nicodemus was a reader of the Bible, its student, a teacher of it, a regular attendant at church, a tither of all his wealth, one who ministered to the poor and in all things a moral man. Yet Christ appraised him as being without the kingdom of God. Complete Transformation Necessary."

"And similarly in these days the moral man is likewise out-side of God's fold. It is not enough to get into His kingdom. Baptism will not be sufficient to merit salvation. Nothing short of a complete transformation of the soul so that in all of its ramifications the spiritual dominates it will satisfy God."

"To be animated by the Holy Spirit is to be in a condition developing following the new birth. It is the spiritual heights to which the genuine Christian aspires and reaches. Jesus said to Nicodemus: 'Except a man be born again he can not see the kingdom of heaven.'"

"Well, We're Off"

As the first step toward establishment of air mail service between the United States and the Canal Zone by way of Cuba and Central America, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, who blazed the Atlantic air trail, was in Honduras early today.

With his characteristic, "Well, We're off," which he remarked with a smile as he started his epochal jump from Roosevelt field, N. Y., to Le Bourget field, France, less than two years ago, the "Lone Eagle" hopped on another ocean flight from Miami, Fla., to Havana, Cuba, thence to Beliz, British Honduras, yesterday, his twenty-seventh birthday.

The flying colonel's final destination is Cristobal, Panama Canal Zone, where he expects to arrive after three days' voyaging. Of course, weather conditions may affect his schedule, but the modest son of a Detroit school teacher is seldom late on his air trips.

Thus Lindbergh, who spanned the Atlantic in 33 hours and 29 minutes, and received the adulation of idolizing millions, the homage of kings and other rulers, and had conferred upon him medals by various countries and was acclaimed at tumultuous celebrations and given a round of receptions and an unprecedented homecoming, is blazing another new trail. But this has become commonplace with him since he announced, after his New York-Paris flight, that he would do nothing that would not, in a dignified, honorable way, "promote the advancement of aviation." And he adhered to that ambition in his good-will hops to Mexico and South America, and in making the first flight by man over the towering peaks of the Andes mountains, and in his jumps via air to almost every nook and corner of the United States, including East Liverpool.

And it is not surprising that this lad, who declined huge sums of money as gifts, frowned on movie offers and would accept only one reward for the Atlantic flight, the prize of $25,000 that had been standing for years for the first man to accomplish the feat, is the symbol of American youth and manhood. He deserves all the honors that have been heaped upon him, and if reports are true he probably will be found as an aide of President-elect Hoover when the latter enters the White House on March 4.

Modern Youth

In contrast to the criticism about the waywardness of the youth of the land, it is refreshing to hear some good things said of the rising generation.

The most optimistic point of the situation lies in the fact that the school people who have the closest contact with youth are not greatly excited about the present state of affairs. True they know that there are some wild parties, some drinking, some roadside necking and the like; but they know, too, that it has always been so and even worse. They do not permit the sidestepping of a small minority to obscure their confidence in the high purpose and straight walking of the majority.

No less an authority than Dr. Frank Boynton, president of the department of superintendency of the National Education association, in a recent address to the high school principals of Massachusetts, came to the defense of "the Unspanked Generation." Said he, "Today it takes a better boy or girl to be a good boy or girl than was the case 50 years ago."

Making a comparison with what Old Dobbin could do after a day's work and what the modern automobile can do, Dr. Boynton makes the interesting observation that the "radius of mischief" open to the boys and girls of today as compared with those of yesterday is as 45 to 1.

With regard to the youth in college he quoted several college officials, who defend the present generation. While Dr. Boynton thinks the modern youth is doing a fine job under the circumstances, he is not unkind of the need of reducing the juvenile delinquency which does exist. His observations while they might hurt with some, are well founded.

"I am not looking for any diminution in juvenile delinquency until fathers care more for the friendship of their sons than for the friendship of their golf clubs," he declared. "I am not looking for any similar diminution among girls until mothers care more for the rare experience of associating with their own daughters than for bringing home a prize from a bridge party."

Philanthropies

The United States has a reputation of doing things in a big way.

Our philanthropies, like our commercial enterprises in these days, too, must be told in dizzy figures. A recent announcement places charities for 1928 at $2,330,600,000, a gain of $110,960,000 over the previous year.

The largest single bequest was that of Payne Whitney—$45,000,000, to hospitals, libraries and schools. The Rockefeller gave $12,000,000 through the Rockefeller Foundation to the China Medical Board, also $1,400,000 to the medical college of Brussels university.

In addition the Rockefeller family gave $3,000,000 to other educational institutions in the United States and France and $500,000 for Jewish settlements in Russia. Five hundred millions of Standard Oil money was set aside for development of the Great Smoky Mountain National park and a like amount for the restoration of historic Williamsburg, Va., to its early appearance. Some other large gifts were those of Charles Hall, of aluminum fame, who gave $10,000,000 goes colleges here and abroad; the Harkness bequest of $3,000,000 to Harvard university; Nathan Lampert, a million for Jewish welfare; A. E. Pitkin, a million to Yale university; John Markie, $500,000 to the Salvation Army, and Milton McQuade, the same amount for homes for the friendless and orphans in New York.

While these amounts are large and the causes well worth while, the great bulk of the total came from the relatively small giver who made possible the countless community chests and building drives all over the country. Through these, distress was alleviated and institutions set up or placed in position for a better service to mankind.

There remains much to be done. More of the millions of those who have gained them could well be put to work or major projects which could never be financed by public means or by the accumulation of small gifts.

HASKIN DAILY LETTER

By Frederick J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 5.—The American negro is showing an increased pride in his race and, instead of seeking to imitate the white man and his ways, is turning to a cultivation of his own racial heritage. This is a development of very recent years. Like all other peoples, the negro seeks to express himself through some artistic medium. Since the Emancipation there have been negro writers and actors but the writers have written about white people and, as nearly as they could, in the style of white writers. On the stage they have been buffoons, exploiting the humor of their race for the benefit of white audiences.

The last decade has seen a marked change and negroes are expressing themselves, not caring at all about attracting the attention of white people. They write books about negro life and they write and act plays and compose and sing songs for negro audiences. This return to their own racial inspirations has resulted in a sincerity and truthfulness which amounts to art and white people have shown themselves eager to witness this negro work.

Harlem, that section of New York City which constitutes the largest negro community in the world, has many negro theaters. The negro community in Chicago has its own show houses and Washington also is well supplied.

A theatrical production which is attracting especial attention just now strongly emphasizes this return of the negro to his own sources. It is called Deep Harlem and is a sort of musical comedy. It was written by two negroes, Whitney and Tutt, libretto and musical score. It was produced by a negro, stage manager by a negro, and every actor, singer, and dancer in the cast is a negro.

Deep Harlem is the life story of the negro in light operatic form. It is a racial saga and no effort is made to gloss over any period in the history of the people. After being shown in Baltimore and in Washington, Deep Harlem has gone to New York as a Broadway production.

The show has attracted the interest of sociologists and students of the races because it is a portrayal of negro history as it appears to the negro and not as it appears to a white historian. It is necessarily heavily charged with pathos and tragedy and struggle but negro humor and the love of music and the dance enliven the production. Critics declare that every fact of negro character is expressed and the whole is regarded as an artistic and faithful cross section of the story of the negro.

In other fields there is a decided trend on the part of the negro to express himself in terms of his own race and to depart from imitation of the white man. This year's annual exhibition of negro art, held at International house in New York, shows that the negro in painting and sculpture, as well as in drama and music is cleaving ever more closely to his own race. The first prize of $400 and a gold medal of the Harmon Foundation went to Archibald J. Motley, Jr., of Chicago. His subject was a portrait study entitled "The Octopus Girl." Another prize was won by Malvin Gray Johnson of New York, his subject being "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot." It is a picture of plantation slaves at the end of the day. They stand beside a river bank and call upon God to bring them freedom. Richard Barthe of Chicago exhibited a sculpture "Head of a Tortured Negro" which received honorable mention and the sculptures of May Howard Jackson of Washington received a bronze medal and a $100 prize.

Nearly all of the works of art exhibited by the negroes had negroes and negro life as subjects. Even the landscapes shown indicated a desire on the part of the painter to represent characteristic negro scenes. Old negro cabins in the South as well as city scenes depicting the modern life of the negro appeared. Also quite a few subjects were taken from Biblical lore. Most of these artists are poor and their art does not afford them a living. One exhibitor who won honorable mention is an Indianapolis truck driver. He does all his painting at home after the day's work. A Cincinnati school teacher, an elevator operator in New York, and a janitor of a Greenwich Village apartment building are among the exhibitors. With scarcely an exception, these artists are self taught and while producing work excellent enough to be hung in exhibitions still must continue their outside work to make a living. They make some sales but, as many white artists know, the occasional sale of a picture promises only a precarious livelihood. Negro organizations urge wealthy negroes to assist artists of their race by purchasing their work but most purchases are made by wealthy whites.

In literature, the negro has shown the same return to his own race for material and a means of expression. The material gains are much better in that field than in painting and sculpture, such recent novels as "Rain bow 'Round My Shoulder" and "Home to Harlem" as well as a few books of verse having sold widely bringing large monetary returns.

Questions And Answers

By Frederic J. Haskin.

Q. When was the last special session of Congress held? F. J.

A. The clerk of the house of representatives says that the last special session was the third session of the 67th congress and was called by the late President Harding to convene November 20, 1922, the proclamation stating that public interest required the session to settle important matters. Actually, the matter considered, was the question of the Merchant Marine act.

Q. What printers set up the Declaration of Independence? The Constitution? A. S.

A. John Dunlap and David Claypoole of Philadelphia.

Q. Was tobacco used or known before it was taken to England from Virginia? C. B.

A. Tobacco was first introduced into Spain from Santo Domingo and thence into France in 1559. The culture of tobacco in the United States began in Virginia with the earliest settlement of the colony. There is record of its being cultivated in Jamestown as early as 1615.

Q. How many passenger trains does the Pennsylvania Railroad run a year? P. C. R.

A. It runs 1,387,000 passenger trains a year.

Q. How long has soap been available as a manufactured product? L. C.

A. The manufacture of soap upon a very large scale dates only from about 1823, in which year Chevreul published his famous researches on animal fats. The use of soap is of great antiquity. A well-equipped soap factory was found by the excavators of Pompeii. Historical records of Italy and Spain show that soap was in use in those countries in the eighth century. The soap berry was used before soap was manufactured. Soap berry is the common name of several species of Sapindus and of the fruits which are so rich in saponin that they were employed for the same purpose as alkaline soap before the days of that article. The Chinese prefer them even yet for cleansing the hair and delicate skins.

Ritzy Rosalie

There is no cause for gasping at the seeming absence of shoulder straps on Rosalie's new evening frock. The straps are there. Being of nude chiff, they are invisible and give an interesting line to the bodice. Artificial flowers have descended to the center of the waistline on the newest frocks. Rosalie's fan is made of the same material as her frock and is in layers of long petals. Feather fans just aren't left on the map of fashion any more.

NEW YORK Day By Day

By O. O. McIntyre.

LONDON, Feb. 5.—The Strand is like Broadway, one of the cross roads of the world. Standing in the horse-shoe court entrance to the Savoy this morning I exchanged greetings with a half dozen from over yonder and saw at least a dozen I knew by sight.

The Strand was once a narrow, winding and miry track straggling through the lush fields. (Just an antiquarian who likes to recall: "When I was a boy this street was a brook.") Today London's Main Stem ripples with contrasts. Curb are lined with hawkers peddling everything from matches to motor robes from speed cakes to buggy whips.

Picturesque news venders, encased turtle like in billboards, herald the latest bulletins. Lumbering green buses gaudy with advertising placards. Bobbies with comic chin straps. Fortune tellers. Clerks in spats. Blowzy creatures lurching from pubs. The very rich—the very poor. London Town as it always is!

On way to Trafalgar Square to watch the pigeons around the Nelson monument, a man, staggering under his load, was trundling a screaming and tipsy crone home on a wheelbarrow. "She's been 'arf seas over for a fortnight," he explained to the corner bobby, who waved him hurriedly on.

One of the sorry spectacles of London is the heavy drinking among its old and poverty stricken women. They are always lined up like hooded vultures for the pubs to open. It is their way of snatching forgetfulness from the tedium of despair. Along the embankment benches many are stretched out in oblivion as early as 10 a. m.

The long ago is ever present in London. On Haymarket I turned beside a saddler's shop into one of the myriad courtyards, and there in the center was a sundial bearing a name to faint to decipher, but the date 1745 was legible. A perky American flapper smoking a cigarette was photographing it.

What one misses most in London is color. Everywhere the sullen, sober grey of twilight. The great scene painter is smoke—all buildings merge from a pearl pale into a charred black. You begin to long for the brilliant and audacious red of an American five and ten.

In the lounge of the hotel today a slightly disheveled young man arrived, obviously late, for his appointment with a fair maid. "I've been on a terrific binge," he explained. There's a word—binge!

The shrill chatter of London's street cries is at least a novelty for the newcomer—the first time visitor remembers them as he does the cacophony of auto horns in Paris. "Sweet Lavender!", "Chairs to Mend!", "Rosemary, sage and thyme!", "Hats Refurbished," and a thousand others are somehow pleasant to alien ears.

And the horn of the night watchman of Dickens' day, telling the hour and tokens of the weather and bidding remembrance to the dead, has been supplanted by the wireless—the radio is the wireless here—announcer who signed off last night with: "11:22 precisely and a start night in London. Good sleep all." I did a fireman's bound from the bed, but missed the stars. When I reached the window a fog was there as usual.

At a coffee stall near Cockspur the server was an American with a rich Cockney accent. He came over here with a rodeo show 14 years ago and when the company stranded remained. As he volunteered information he was an American, I quite naturally inquired: "How did you pick up your accent?"

"And 'ow did yer pick up yer nibbles?" he replied. Lots of people have wondered about that and some day I suppose I'll learn to keep my big mouth shut.

If there is anything with a worse taste than an "American soda" in London I don't care to know about it. One wonders what they put into it aside from shredded rubber heel, hair oil and a dab of axle grease. I know what I suspect. This afternoon I ordered a chocolate soda. The clerk disappeared through some sort of a trap door and showed up in the minutes with a sickly green concoction without a single effervescent bubble. With it he served a tiny saucer of mints. And they were welcome to remove the taste.

YOUR HEALTH

An Ounce of Prevention Is Worth A Pound of Cure.

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland.

We may laugh at the "other fellow" who has a toothache, but it is a real illness. The victim may have no temperature.

He may be able to go about his affairs. But nobody can be happy and efficient if the jaw contains an aching tooth. If you have the toothache you feel sick, you look sick, you act sick—and you are sick.

The proper treatment for toothache is not to have it!

This may sound foolish, but it isn't. You may not escape pneumonia or an automobile accident. Either one may be forced upon you. But you know how to escape the toothache. If you have it, it is because you choose to have it or at least permitted yourself to have it.

No matter how poor you are you should not neglect your teeth. If you are poor, you will be poorer when your teeth begin to ache. You won't be any good at your job and you may lose your position.

If you can't get the money any other way, stay away from the movies for a month and use your savings to pay a dentist. It won't cost much if you begin your visit to the dental office before big cavities have formed, or the gums have become diseased.

If you are poor and live in a modern community you can get free dental service through the schools, or the board of health. Every progressive locality has dental clinics.

If you are not so poor, you have no excuse for avoiding the dentist. You can afford to go and you owe it to yourself to attend to your teeth.

If you have early, regular and scientific dental care you won't have the toothache. One way or another you can get such care if you choose to do so. If you don't get it, it is because you deliberately neglected to find relief.

One of the common things a doctor hears is this: "What have I ever done to be sent such suffering?" A good many times the doctor can truthfully reply: "You did nothing. It isn't your fault."

But when a responsible, intelligent, grown-up, moral agent inquires about the toothache, "Why am I made to suffer this way?"—there is, but one answer: "You deliberately elected to have the toothache! It is your own fault!"

But if you have the toothache, it is "crying over spilled milk" to discuss the neglects of the past. The thing to do now is to get rid of the dreadful pain. The dentist has many things at hand besides pulling out the tooth. He may be able to correct the defect in speedy and comfortable fashion. See him at once.

We may paraphrase modern advertising by saying, "Don't envy good teeth, good-looking teeth, serviceable teeth—have them!"

E. C. Q.—What can you tell me regarding neurasthenia?

Neurasthenia is difficult to relieve, because it requires so much faith and persistence. You require a thorough physical examination including the teeth, tonsils and urine. The intestinal tract must be made to function. Sleep, rest, fresh air, gentle exercise, change of scene and diversion are essential. With good sense and proper care you will feel yourself once again.

Other Editors Say

The Governor Is Right.

Insistent as he is upon the successful outcome of a proposal to put a state office building in Columbus, Governor Cooper declares he will oppose any legislation which makes mandatory the purchase of any specific piece of real estate for this purpose.

The governor is an experienced real estate operator. He knows that the moment the information becomes public that the state must acquire certain land, the price of it will be increased out of all relation to its real value. The state would invite certain land owners to hold it up.

There are better ways of doing business and something must be done about this state office building proposal. The old capitol building, which suffices for the purpose of the legislature, the supreme court and a few offices, was outgrown by most of the state departments many years ago. State offices, which ought to be concentrated, are scattered all over Columbus. That plan, or lack of plan, is expensive and inefficient and inconvenient for state officials and the people who have business relations with them.

No well organized private business could afford to continue such an arrangement and the taxpayers who foot the state's bills are becoming impatient about it. They are insistent that the legislature move in session and other officials who have to do with this matter, must quit quarreling over details of location and construction and agree upon the erection of a modern office structure close to the magnificently-located old capitol building in the heart of Columbus.—Toledo Blade.

The Value of Secrecy.

Do you keep the secrets your friends tell you?

Or do you tell just one person? Of course, you extract a promise, not to tell, but you must tell some one.

And if you cannot resist confiding what is supposed to be a secret how do you expect others to keep what you cannot keep?

It may be difficult for you to keep your own private affairs.

You want to talk them over with some one.

But before you do, you would better consider whether you are violating a trust or not, if another is concerned.

If you want to keep stories from circulating you must start them. The friend of today may be your enemy tomorrow.

Damaging information trusted to a friend may turn out to be most embarrassing at a least expected moment.

The one who knows the most about you can cause you the most trouble. It may not be with intent, but a loose tongue is dangerous.

Bilious child suffers agony.

No more headaches and sickness.

Save your child from spitting headache and prostrating sickness. If the tongue is coated and breath unpleasant, it is a sure sign the stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with constipated waste. Simply give a dose of "California Fig Syrup," and shortly after all the sour, irritating bile and fermenting undigested food will be moved from the bowels, leaving the system clean and sweet and the child bright and strong.

"California Fig Syrup" suits child's system better than any harsh purging medicine, and they love its delicious taste.

There are many imitations of California Fig Syrup. To be sure of getting the genuine, look for the name "California" on the package.—Adv.

Paving and Pay Jump On Council Schedule

Discussion of Proposed Improvement on Clark Avenue Looms at Session Tonight; Server's Salary Boost Up.

WELLSVILLE, O., Feb. 5.—Proposed improvement of Clark avenue from Fifteenth street west to the city limits probably will be discussed on both the angle of the city and that of the property owners at tonight's meeting of council.

Improvement of the thoroughfare in the western end of the municipality was proposed some time ago by Mayor Wallace L. Fogo and council subsequently instructed City Engineer R. D. McGill to prepare estimates on the probable cost, along with figures on the cost of resurfacing Commerce street.

These estimates the engineer submitted recently to the lawmakers, including figures on concrete as well as concrete on a brick foundation.

A short time ago Clark avenue property owners, at a meeting called for the purpose of discussing the proposed improvement, went on record as favoring the concrete on brick plan, pointing out that its greater degree of permanency would more than make up for the increased cost.

Resolution calling for an increase in the salary of Service-Safety Director George B. Imbrie will be brought out for a second reading.

The measure was initiated as an emergency but failed when it was given only a bare majority of affirmative votes. However, it was adopted on first reading.

SANITY HEARING IS COMPLETED

A commission composed of Superintendent Hyde of the Massillon State hospital, and Drs. Herbert Bennett and Seward Harris of Lisbon, appointed by Judge W. F. Lones, completed an examination Monday afternoon of Joseph McBane, Wellsville, indicted by the January grand jury for incest.

Counsel for McBane asked the court last week to permit the sanity of the accused be determined by a jury, and then appoint three physicians to conduct an early examination and file a report with Prosecuting Attorney John E. Bauknecht.

The examination was conducted in common pleas courtroom No. 2, but the result has not been announced by Prosecutor Bauknecht. The case against McBane has not been assigned, so far as the determination of sanity is concerned.

McBane entered a plea of not guilty when arraigned, and has been held for trial under $2,000 bail.

LOSES LICENSE FOR SIX MONTHS

Charged with operating an automobile while intoxicated, Charles Kinsey was fined $25 and costs at a hearing last night before Acting Mayor Clyde Baker. His automobile license also was suspended for six months. Acting Mayor Baker said that while ordinarily a year's license suspension was warranted by the nature of the case, the man's clear record and the fact that it was his first offense mitigated against the stricter sentence.

The mayor fractured a leg when he fell over a fire hose in East Liverpool. Hanlon was accidentally shot in the leg.

LITTLE CHATS ABOUT YOUR HEALTH

"WHAT YOU DON'T KNOW DOESN'T WORRY YOU!"

It is said that what you don't know doesn't worry you.

While that's often true, yet unnecessary ignorance of some kinds is as foolish as the belief of the ostrich who considers himself hidden from view if only his head is buried in the sand.

If you have incipient tuberculosis, cancer, diabetes or any one of the many such things which thorough physical examinations sometimes bring to light, you may not worry now but unless they are detected and corrected in their early stages you may worry a whole lot more at a latter time.

We have advised as to the value of yearly examinations of the kind many times, but only because we know such a course to be for your own best interest.

Let your physician learn the true facts regarding your physical condition. A careful examination is the only way to establish the facts.

Billy Sunday Drive Wins In Elyria, Matthews Says

Pianist and Secretary to Evangelist is Now Proud Father, He Advises in Letter To Friend.

"We are having a tremendous meeting here. The first week was hard, with bitter weather and flu to contend with. Then it caught fire and has swept along with the enthusiasm of a prairie fire," writes Robert Matthews, pianist and secretary to the Rev. Billy Sunday, of the evangelistic campaign now in progress by the former baseball player in Elyria.

Kentucky born and used to the warmth of the southland, he comments pertinently on the cold weather in northern Ohio. "I do not see how any one who does not have to do it lives in this north country in the winter time," he says. "There are times even in buildings when one has to wear an overcoat all of the time."

And he goes on to tell that following the East Liverpool revival he acquired the dignity of a father after a long period of bachelorhood that was broken some two years ago.

"Did you know that a nine-pound baby was born to my wife in Mississippi just five days before I came north?" he asks. And he laconically adds: "I got him well grounded in Fundamentalism and Jeffersonian principles before I had to leave him. But I will see him for three days on my way to Texas."

Having been with Billy Sunday longer than any other member of the present evangelistic party save Rodeheaver, the pianist who formerly was a newspaper man, is known throughout a large circle of the country as "Bob."

In future campaigns it is possible that his son will become a familiar figure in sawdust tabernacles after he graduates from church nurseries where Billy Sunday sends all babies.

Billy Sunday's next campaign will be held in Corpus Christi, Texas. And while enroute to that city the now happy Matthews hopes to spend a few days with "Junior" down Mississippi way.

DON'T STARVE TO END FAT

Few succeed without harm. Try the modern way, embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 20 years—millions of boxes of them. The results are seen everywhere.

Marmola contains a gland element which helps turn food into fuel and energy. The formula appears in every box, also the reasons for results. Thus you will know how the changes occur without harm.

All druggists supply Marmola at $1 a box. Go start it now. Take four tablets daily until weight comes down to normal. Do this because of the new beauty and vim which Marmola has brought to so many, for so long.

Nevins, lake sailor, and confessed slayer of his cellmate, Don Prentiss, was in solitary confinement here today following his plea of not guilty before presiding Criminal Judge Samuel E. Kramer late yesterday.

Nevins is in a cell directly above the one in which the killing took place. He and Prentiss were both federal prisoners and Nevins was returned here from the federal penitentiary at Atlanta to answer to the murder charge.

Nevins was still defiant today, declaring he killed Prentiss because he "knew too much." Prentiss, formerly a Detroit automobile salesman, was beaten to death with a lead pipe while he slept. He was charged with violation of the Mann act, while Nevins had been sentenced to five years in Atlanta for sending threatening letters to nurses in the Marine hospital here.

BANDITS FLEE WITH $4,000

Three Men Hold Up Branch Bank in Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 5.—Three bandits escaped with between $4,000 and $5,000 from a branch bank of the United bank here shortly after noon today, according to a report from police.

The branch is located at 10934 Lorain avenue, one of the busiest sections of the West Side.

Ermath Maurer, cashier, told police that two men who recently rented a safe deposit box in the institution gained entrance by asking to open the box. As soon as they were admitted, according to the report, they shoved pistols in the teller's side and escaped with the funds in his cage.

The third man was waiting in an automobile. Police and detective details from all parts of the city were immediately placed on the trail.

overhead crossing at the foot of Broadway. He cited an instance where he had been delayed for 23 minutes while trains were passing over the crossing.

Council took no action on the request for a third track system, indicating that a conference probably would be arranged with railroad officials at which time plans for elimination of the grade crossing at Broadway will be considered along with the request for a proposed new track.

Earl Cochran, Fawcett street, asking for the establishment of grade lines in Fawcett street between Blakeley street and Bradshaw avenue. His request was referred to the city engineer.

Ask Salary Boost for Librarian

Permission to transfer $180 from the repair fund to the salary fund of the Carnegie library appropriation in order to provide a $15 monthly increase in the salary of Miss Mary Hall, librarian, was made by Attorney Harry Brokaw, a trustee. Brokaw declared that Miss Hall's salary has been raised from $135 to $150 a year ago but because of the lack of funds the increase had not been paid. Council declared that no request for an increased appropriation had been submitted to the finance committee. Action on Brokaw's request was deferred until an investigation could be made regarding the library board's budget.

Councilman Hughes reported that he had received complaints regarding the warning bell at the Virginia avenue railroad crossing. Solicitor Hoover said that he had requested the railroad company to install a flasher system of lights at this crossing about three months ago and had been given to understand that the request would be considered. Because of the danger there, council decided to request the railroad company to install a gate.

Vote Pay for Volunteer Firemen.

Upon recommendation of Chief Thomas Bryan council voted to compensate nine volunteer firemen who assisted the fire department in fighting the Buckeye Lumber company fire on January 7. The compensation based on the number of hours which the firemen worked, totaled $100. The volunteers included William Davis, Robert Anderson, Elmer Smith, Clarence West, Okey Anthony, Jerry Cunningham, Archie Pinkerton, Raymond Pinkerton, John Logan and Alfred Van Dyne. Legislators, providing for the payment was ordered prepared.

Resolution declaring it necessary to improve East Seventh street, formerly Smith street, from Dresden to Lincoln avenues, by grading and paving with brick on concrete, was passed on three readings under suspension of the rules, with Councilman Hughes dissenting. Councilmen Green, Lindell, Frost, Altman, Ferguson and Fleming supported the plan. Hughes is opposed to the resurfacing of that part of the street between Lincoln avenue and Green lane, which he contends could be placed in first class condition with a few repairs.

Boost Commissioner's Salary.

Ordinance increasing the salary of the street commissioner from $165 to $190 a month, was also passed on three readings under suspension of the rules. Another ordinance increasing the salary of the assistant librarian was not considered.

Council failed to take up the legislation for the severing of the Beechwood Park boulevard and other sections of the Northside district which was rejected two weeks ago. The city engineer is said to be working on plans for sewer improvements in Pleasant Heights and Oakland which will be incorporated in the proposed city program.

MISSING GIRL IS FOUND

Elizabeth Nay

CAMBRIDGE, O., Feb. 5.—Elizabeth Nay, 18, missing from her home in Newcomerstown since last Thursday, was found at Byesville today by Marshal Louis Davis, who took her into custody.

Though the girl was reported to have left Newcomerstown with a strange man in an automobile she was unaccompanied when she was found at the home of her friends, Mr. and Mrs. Stephens Janusz, of Byesville. Marshal Davis said the girl told him she left her parents because she had become discouraged at home.

NEWCOMERTOWN, O., Feb. 5.—Miss Elizabeth (Sue) Nay, 18, missing from her home here since last Thursday, when she accepted a ride home from a shopping trip with an unidentified, middle-aged man in an automobile, was seen struggling to escape from her supposed abductor's car a few minutes after Miss Nay's companion, Hazel Hillman, had alighted.

This was brought to light along with another threatening letter said to have been received by the girl, as police continued their questioning of close friends of Miss Nay.

Miss Frances Crater and Howard Jones, both school mates of Miss Nay, told of seeing the girl with a strange man in a blue, wire-wheeled, mud-spattered Ford coach bearing a West Virginia license plate.

The machine was proceeding slowly toward the Cambridge-Newcomerstown road and the girl appeared to be struggling with the driver, the couple said.

ADDITIONAL details come from Madrid concerning the attack on the Pope's representative, the papal nuncio Monsignor Frederic Tedeschini. He was shot, not dangerously wounded, while driving, two detectives accompanying him on bicycles. One of them was wounded in the leg.

THE incident does not necessarily mean, that hostility to the church such as exists in Mexico, is involved in the present Spanish rebellion. It is considered probable that the bullets were intended for another personage.

NEXT year, Pope Pius will assemble the ecumenical council of the Catholic church. It was last assembled in 1870, just before the French troops, protecting the papal state, were withdrawn and Italian troops entered Rome putting an end to the Pope's temporal power.

IT IS expected that at this council the Pope will announce an understanding with Mussolini's government, restoring temporal power to the church. It will be, however, only a shadowy power, a few acres of land devoted to properties already in the Vatican possessions. It will be important to the pope's releasing them from their self-imposed imprisonment in the Vatican, and facilitating the sending of ambassadors from non-Catholic states to the Vatican.

HOW strange is money, nearly all craving it, struggling for it, but few really understanding it. Our government writes its name on a piece of paper, and one cent's worth of paper immediately becomes worth ten or ten thousand dollars.

But if our government wants money, it borrows cash in the open market, paying what it must, to bankers that are its own creation.

GOVERNMENT COULD print and circulate what money it needs, instead of printing bonds, call in the non-interest bearing currency, as it calls in interest bearing bonds, at its convenience and save hundreds of millions a year in interest charges.

BARNYARD GOLF CROWN TOTTERS

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 5.—C. C. Davis, Columbus, O., world's champion horseshoe pitcher, braced himself today to save his tottering crown.

In the opening round in the mid-winter tournament yesterday, the Ohioan won only one out of three events. Meanwhile Blair Nunnemaker, Cleveland, O., Bert Duryee, Wichita, Kans., and Harvey Emerson, Kenosha, Wis., emerged with clean slates.

Davis lost to "Putt" Mossman, Eldorado, Ia., 50 to 40, and to Harvey Emerson, the Swede. However, he won over C. R. Thompson, Harvey, Ill.

Britain is on a gold basis, solid as a rock, yet last week the virtuous pound sterling fell to the lowest point, with one exception, since 1926, when strikes crippled British industry.

AMERICAN financiers bought $25,000,000 gold from Britain. Low sterling exchange facilitated that, and Britain gripped.

The men were taken off in surfboats, in charge of a picked crew of lifesavers after a hard battle to reach the disabled schooner.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Both the industrial and the railroad stocks moved through a narrow price range in quiet trading this morning. The steel and motor stocks were inclined to rally from the slump which was in progress at the close of Monday's market, while the railroad stocks dropped off a point or two as the result of profit-taking by nervous speculators.

The stock exchange's monthly report on speculative borrowings for January was "not as bad as expected," the usual designation of outside factors with an unfavorable flavor. On the other hand, it was announced that $10,000,000 in gold had been engaged for shipment from London to New York.

In celebration of the latest triumphs in aviation, the airplane stocks mounted to higher price levels, Wright and Curtiss advancing about five points each.

and began to look over the plane he was cheered. The "Flying Colonel" said that the first leg of the flight had been made without difficulty and he hoped to have no trouble in reaching the Canal Zone. An inspection was made of the landing gear to see if it had been strained when the wheels sank into the soft sand of the new ramp yesterday. It was found that the plane was in good condition.

Arrangements were made in advance to have the fuel ready so that Lindbergh would not be unduly delayed in getting away.

MURPHY ASKS HIGH TARIFF FOR POTTERY

Congressman Appeals
For Domestic Industry
Protection.

COMPARES WAGES

Czecho-Slovakia and Japan Bid for Market.

"Wheels turning in Czecho-Slovakia and Japan do not add to the prosperity of America," said Congressman Frank Murphy of Steubenville, in a statement yesterday supporting requests being put before the ways and means committee at Washington by the pottery manufacturers of the United States for rates of duty in the new tariff law which he says will restore to operation the 40 per cent of American potteries that are now closed down because they cannot compete with low cost foreign production. Domestic demand is such that if every pottery in the United States were enabled to work at full time every day in the year, such production would not meet more than 75 per cent of the demand, Murphy asserts, so that foreign producers have no just complaint against a protective duty which would still leave them at least 25 per cent of American consumption.

Difference in Wages. "More than 50 per cent of the money value of pottery purchased in the United States in 1928 was imported, and some means must be found of revising and supporting the domestic industry," Murphy contends. "The pottery of five years ago is now obsolete, and indeed there would be no such industry in the country today were it not for the efficiency of the American working man and the splendid brains that are applied to the management of industry in this country."

Ask American Valuation. "In the existing tariff law, this industry has an ad valorem duty of 70 per cent, but this rate is applied to the foreign value of the imports. Pottery comes to this country from England, Germany, France, Czecho-Slovakia and Japan. England's wage scale is the nearest approach to ours, but we pay in this country eight times the wages paid in the same industry in Japan."

"With our rate based on the foreign value of the imports, the amount of duty diminishes with the lowering of production cost and price, so that we are wholly without protection against imports from such countries as France, Czecho-Slovakia and Japan. It is for that reason that the pottery industry of the United States asks for a duty based on the value of the domestic competing product, which is so-called American valuation and fixes an amount of duty to be assessed against all like imports at any given time."

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative mixed with olive oil.

No gripping is the "key-note" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown stool"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant relief from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night to keep right. Try them. 15c, 30c, 60c.

ADJUSTING FIRE LOSSES:

A Fine Record of Fair Dealing

THE last licking flame has been quenched. The firemen have returned to their stations. Ashes—smoke—stains—water-soaked contents—then the adjuster.

All day long and every day the adjuster meets people who have sustained losses against which they were insured. Whether greeted cordially or gruffly, the adjuster must handle his problem with tact and fairness. The reputation of his company goes with him into every case.

During 1927 nearly a million reports of losses were filed with the Stock Fire Insurance companies. Ninety-nine and nine tenths percent of the claims arising from these loss reports were adjusted without resort to legal action; a splendid tribute to the fairness of the contracting parties—the public and the fire insurance companies.

It is the constant effort of the Stock Fire Insurance companies to employ only honest and competent adjusters, to the end that legitimate claims may be settled fairly in conformity with the rights of the interested parties.

The adjuster is appraised by his ability to arrive at the proper amount of loss and to avoid claims originating from that enemy to society—the arsonist.

The public confidence in Stock Fire Insurance is in a large measure due to the fair dealing of its adjusters.

Dempsey Confident Florida Bout Will Be Financial Success

Strib's Pa Turns In Big Order

Southern Fighter to be Enjoined From Flying.

By Larry Smith.
MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 5.—Promoter Jack Dempsey today expressed himself as pleased with the prospect of making a financial winner out of the Sharkey-Stribling fight February 27 in view of a steady pickup in the requests for reservations.

Georgia friends of young Stribling are coming in droves to see him battle the Bostonian, according to Dempsey, and already word has been received from the various resorts of Florida—and other sections of the south—that delegations will be here for the scrap.

"Pat" Stribling has just placed a sizable order for ringside seats with Dempsey. He gave the promoter-fighter checks for $10,425 for seats for Georgia friends who had asked him to be their agent.

Dempsey said he expects a large influx of northern fans in about ten days or two weeks, and then the coming frays will be "steamed up" in earnest.

Meanwhile, Sharkey and Stribling are training lightly—Sharkey playing golf and swimming and Stribling taking long hikes and occasional plunges into the surf.

Dempsey, as a precaution against injury to Stribling, has sought an injunction restraining the southerner from any more flying prior to the fight.

The demand for seats led Dempsey to open a third local office this morning in the Roney plaza, and make arrangements for offices in Tampa and Jacksonville. Dempsey pointed out that the southeastern district promise made of the Florida 40 and 8 will be held in Miami late in February. This meeting is expected to draw American Legionnaires from all parts of the south, many of whom will take in the fight. The Miami Tribune No. 492 announced that 10,000 Legionnaires would be in the city around the fight date.

Don Golden's Packards Win Fast Contest

Cop From Stutz in 'Y' Loop in Close Scrap, 37-34.

Don Golden's Packards took over the Stutz five in a "Y" league battle last night by the score of 37 to 34.

The contest was fast and well played, the Packards coming through to a win in the last few minutes of play, Manypenny making the deciding point.

The Packards led in the first quarter, 11 to 6, and maintained a safe margin during the second quarter, the count being 17 to 11 at the end of the first half.

Both sides continued to set a fast pace in the third period, the Packards holding a 28 to 22 lead when the period was over.

In the final period the Stutz five took a spurt, Burke tying the score with three straight baskets. With the score deadlocked at 29 all and four minutes to go, Staley, Edwards, Massey and Manypenny scored field goals to keep the Packards out in front.

Staley, Manypenny and Hancock were the big guns for the Packards, while Nease, Moore, and Burke starred for the losers.

How Hnizder Was Made Murphy

Basketball coaches throughout the Buckeye Conference have been wondering about the new Ohio Wesleyan star named Murphy who led the Bishops in scoring against Denison with five fielders and three fouls. He is none other than Harry Hnizder, veteran Bishop forward.

The alias Murphy was invented for Hnizder by an Associated Press writer. Sports writers have spelled Hnizder's name in most every imaginable way, Schnizder, Nizder, Hnizbar, and so forth, ad infinitum, but Murphy is a new one.

Hnizder's name, though difficult to spell is easy to pronounce. You do not have to sneeze to do it. The "H" is silent as in "cat." Incidentally, Hnizder's best girl is out the price of a long distance call from Springfield, Ohio because of "Murphy." Failing to see Hnizder's name in the Bishop lineup in her Sunday paper, she called the boy up to see if he was up and around, for nothing less than a first class illness can keep him out of the Wesleyan lineup.

Folks used to argue about the relative merits of the man for man defense versus the zone defense, but that debate seems to be about over so far as Buckeye Conference basketball is concerned. Five of the six Buckeye teams play a man for man defense, with Denison the only team consistently using the zone system.

The little town of Oxford takes honors this year as the best basketball town in the Buckeye circuit. Miami's hometown packs the gym for Buckeye games despite the small size of the city. The Cincinnati Bearcats play before great crowds also, but have a larger group of potential spectators to draw upon.

Delaware has been the poorest basketball town in the circuit so far this year, despite the brilliant ball played by Ohio Wesleyan.

To stall or not to stall—that is the question Springfield basketball fans are debating ever since the Denison-Wittenberg game in which the ball was "frozen" for the greater part of the game.

The majority of fans usually take the negative side of the question unless their team happens to be ahead with two minutes to play.

Rosies Beat Ft. Wayne to Win Pro Title

Cleveland Five Nose Out Rivals in Close Tilt, 19-17.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Feb. 5.—Cleveland today ruled the American Basketball league as champion of the first half season. The Rosenblums won the title by defeating Fort Wayne, 19 to 17, in a hardfought "playoff" game here last night. Both teams had finished the championship half season in a tie for first place.

LEAGUE RIVALS, CLASH FOR LEAD

Pair of hot battles are scheduled when Chester district cage league rivals clash tomorrow night in the Chester auditorium.

Epworth Leaguers tackle Laughlin 4-5 in the opener followed by Collegians and T. S. T.

Neither of the contenders in the opening game have lost yet, each winning twice. Consequently, tomorrow's tilt will put one of them definitely in the lead.

Collegians and T. S. T. also are tied at the .500 mark while the Katies and G.T. will be fighting to get out of the cellar.

Bennett won from Wallace in last night's three-cushion league game in the Club Billiard parlors. The score was 35-19. Bennett had high run of four.

MIDLAND MEETS AMBRIDGE AGAIN

MIDLAND, Pa., Feb. 5.—The Lincoln High school quintet will play a return game tonight with Ambridge on the Midland floor.

The upriver five landed a 24 to 17 decision over the locals when the first game was staged at Ambridge.

National Loop O.K.'s Schedule

Possible, But Not Probable Trades May be Discussed.

By Davis J. Walsh.
NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Having discovered that he most pleasant way of doing nothing is to hold a meeting for that purpose, the National league will convene solemnly today and with all due gravity, adopt a schedule which has been in cold type for many days. The business, on the face of it, is as dead as the sulphur on an ex-machet yet baseball ever was a whimsical racket and, for all anyone knows, it may trade itself silly before the end of the day.

The last time out, the National league pulled one for the old album when it yessed John A. Heydler on his mast piece, entitled the permanent pinch hitter. This time, it may pull something else out of the hat. They even might sell the Giants, since Innendoes to this effect have been traveling to and fro on the back stairs these many days. It isn't likely that they would pick a league meeting for such an announcement, however.

In fact, it has become the custom for nothing to come out of these gatherings in a most industrious manner. They talk a trade for themselves but seldom close it until weeks later, if at all. The only incentive the lads may have for immediate action is that the occasion probably will afford them their last chance to do business before post-time on April 16.

There has been some talk, for example, that the Cubs wish to add Lester Bell to the payroll so that he will not be away from home without Mister Hornsby, his professional godfather. This may be very important, so Joe McCarthy has signified his willingness to see that the right thing is done by the young man. He may be had from the Braves, according to the common understanding, but only for a price and they don't mean money. It is believed that the Braves will go for the Bell deal if they can get an outfielder, possibly Heathcote.

Miller Huggins also is in town for the rival meeting but I wouldn't say that he still has hopes of hawking Ben Paschal or Eddie Duro to the highest bidder. There can be no bidder in the National league until such time as these men are waived out of the American, which time is not now. That Jack Hendricks, of Cincinnati, may do some business is more likely, which means not very. Hendricks really wants to get somewhere, with George Kelly but usually he defeats his own purpose. John is a very austere man in a trade.

It is more than possible that a National league outfit or two will close some transfers with minor league clubs but, actually, this is not on the schedule of business. There is, as a matter of fact, nothing on the schedule itself, and the only thing unusual about this is that it will feature Sunday dates in Boston for the first time in baseball history.

CHAMP MANDELL HURTS SHOULDER

PEORIA, Ill., Feb. 5.—Sammy Mandell, world's lightweight champion, today suffered from a slight injury to his left shoulder sustained here last night in a catchweights bout with Don Davis of Chicago.

Mandell was awarded the decision at the end of the ten whirlwind rounds. He was handicapped during the last two sessions by the wrenching of his shoulder. The accident slowed the champion down, but he was far enough ahead to win handily. Eddie Kane, his manager, denied that the injury was a serious one. He said Mandell would be ready for any future engagements.

Chester Five Easy Winner; Baptists Cop

M. E. (B) and Christians Lose League Games.

The Chester Christians ran away from the M. E. (B) five last night, 39 to 18, while the Baptists had more of a job disposing of the local Christian quint, 33-24, in Sunday school league games last night on the M. E. court.

The M. E.'s gave the Chester Five a run in the first half which finished 22 to 14, but dropped out of the running in the second half when they collected only four points while the winners were piling up 17.

The Baptist-Christian tilt was fairly close all the way although the Baptists had a scoring edge in both halves.

Ceramic Cagers On Edge For Clash With Hakoahs

Battle Holman's American League Team Tonight At Auditorium; New Yorkers Trimmed in Pittsburgh.

Set back by the strong Goldensoons quint of the Allegheny county cage league, the New York Hakoahs of the American Professional circuit will probably be in no playful mood when they step on to the auditorium court tonight for their game with the East Liverpool Ceramics.

The big pro boys are not accustomed to taking it on the snout in their exhibition engagements and two in a row wouldn't look so well in the papers back home.

The Ceramics have a chance with the Hakoahs and a very good one. Any team that can trim the Cleveland Favorite Knits the way the Ceramics did it would have a chance with any team in the country.

Of course Nat Holman, the big star of the New York Jewish court aggregation, was on the sidelines last night and that didn't help the barnstormers any. Holman has been nursing an injured leg although he will endeavor to play in at least part of tonight's contest.

"Moon" Kilnzing was the big star in the side of the Hakoahs last night in Pittsburgh. His field goal under the basket in the last minute of play broke a 30-30 deadlock and gave the Pittsburghers a two-point margin over the easterners. Incidentally, it was his sixth basket of the night.

Firth Smith is apt to prove another Kilnzing for the Hakoahs tonight. The local star has been in wonderful form in games the Ceramics have played this season and if his eye is right he should keep the Hakoah guard plenty busy.

Brian Clothiers tackle the Capital Cigars of Steubenville in the preliminary game at 7:30 o'clock. The main event gets under way at 8:30.

VANGUARD

A Highly Amusing Story of a Romance
Aboard a Millionaire's Yacht.

By Arnold Bennett

"Certainly," said Septimius. "My passport's at Naples in the Hotel Splendide," said Harriet.

"Well," said the captain; "well, miss, you can tell that tale to the next British Consul we see. I shall ask him to come on board specially. No one's going ashore off this ship till I know where I am. And if I have to call in the Italian police, I shall call 'em in, and that's all there is to it. What! This young lady has a long interview with His Lordship, and this Mr. Sutherland is supposed to be asleep in his cabin. And the next thing as happens is we find his Lordship knocked senseless and blood all over the place; and then I'm told he slipped and fell down!" Captain Slapser grunted—the grunt of a man who has no doubt at all of his capacity to put two and two together.

The Baron's Delirium

At this juncture Lord Furber opened both eyes, as if to suggest to the company that his presence in the cabin was being rather unduly ignored. The gesture drew general attention and caused excitement. Captain Slapser and Mrs. Bumpion seemed at once to feel a certain loss of prestige at the awakening of supreme authority. Mr. Bumpion stood by to give aid to the sufferer, and was made happy by a somewhat plaintive smile from his partner and tyrant. Harriet Perkins was uplifted. Mr. Sutherland saw hopes, and glanced warily at the captain.

"Furber, my old friend," Mr. Sutherland murmured encouragingly to the sufferer, though he had never been more than an acquaintance of the powerful millionaire. The words frightened Captain Slapser. They produced however, no effect whatever on the Baron. The Baron continued to stare at the ceiling, seemingly quite oblivious of all other phenomena.

"Furber, my friend."

No response.

"Can I get you anything, My Lord?" asked the portly Bumpion, in a tone affectionate and devoted.

A pause, in which hearts almost ceased to beat in intense expectancy. The vibration of the propellers filled the cabin.

"Me feyther's dead—died yesterday," said Lord Furber weakly, in a very marked Midland accent. But there was no other sign of delirium. The eyes closed again.

After a long time Mrs. Bumpion, controlling a sob, muttered:

"They lose their memory—and they never get it back no more. There's funny things happen in the brain. That I do know . . . His Lordship's father's been dead five and twenty years and more . . . Second childhood."

"You heard me," Captain Slapser addressed Septimius shortly.

Septimius turned submissively toward the door of the cabin. In the unsearchable recesses of his soul he was alarmed for himself. And also the strangeness of existence terribly weighed him down. In an hour his past life, so sedate and regular, had receded so far from him that it seemed to be the life of another man. Even the scene in the engine-room was slipping beneath the horizon of experience.

A sudden blow! One dart of his fist! And the whole world had been changed. An hour ago a policeman was a benevolent official who held up a traffic-stopping hand in order to escort perambulators and nursemaids from pavement to pavement. An hour ago a prison was an enclosed place which ought to be inspected and reformed of its abuses. But what now was a policeman and what a prison? In vain he protested to himself that his apprehensions were ridiculously devoid of foundation. The most revolting things were constantly happening in courts of justice. Extradition! Imagine the humiliation of being the subject of extradition. Imagine his name streaming across the front page of Lord Furber's newspapers! Imagine himself being visited in a cell by his wife and daughters! Where would he look when they came? How could he carry it off?

He had given the blow, and he would be obliged to admit that he had given the blow. And why had he given it? Why had he, formerly a great master of self control, yielded so swiftly to the madness of an impulse? The answer was plain; the magical effect upon him of the personality of Miss Harriet Perkins! Toils of a woman! The awful potentialities of fundamental instinct maddened him. And perhaps the worst was that he was not in those acutely anxious moments cutting a good figure in the sight of the woman. True, it was solely for the sake of the woman that he had so rashly tempted fate; but that could make no difference. At best the woman could only pity him; she could not respect him. And to be pitied, especially by her, was loathsome to his sensitive pride. Perhaps it was a desire to force her to admire him that led to his final remark to the Captain:

"Would you mind telling me what your sailing orders are?" he asked, in a voice superciliously casual.

"My sailing orders are my affair," replied the Captain.

Harriet's Admiration

Mr. Sutherland, picking up a cap, went out, with a parting glance at Harriet to follow him.

The Captain said:

"You'll stop here for a bit, Miss, if it's all the same to you." Evidently the Captain in his astuteness was determined that those two should not plot together on the way to the purser's office. "Mr. Bumpion, show this gentleman where Mr. Antinope's room is."

Harriet Perkins, for her part, was not pitying Septimius Sutherland, and his effort to force her admiration was absurdly unnecessary.

She was admiring him with all her heart—for his modesty, sangfroid, self-control, and his scrupulous respect for the authority of Captain Slapser. With the directness and the ruthless realism characteristic of a woman, and especially of a young woman, she regarded the captain as a vain, preposterous, and bloated jack-in-office whom Septimius had been chosen, might have morally smashed to pieces with about twenty quiet words. And she remembered every instant with pride that the whole trouble had arisen through Mr. Sutherland's mad passion for herself. She beatifically saw Harriet Perkins as the inspirer of grave men to romantic and terrible deeds. Yet she refused to credit that Mr. Sutherland's deed was terrible or might have disastrous consequences. But, if it was to have disastrous consequences, she was inclined to think that she would not care.

Her pity descended upon Lord Furber. This mighty legend of a man, whose marvelous success in life he had himself indirectly admitted to her to be after all nothing but a gigantic failure, seemed now to be almost intolerably pathetic. So much so, that if she had continued to look at him as he lay on the bed she might well have shed tears! He was like a child with a toy, and his toy was the earth, and he was tired of his toy and wanted a fresh one and couldn't find a fresh one. He was also strangely like herself. Yet she was his mother, and she had impulses both to chastise him and to pet him.

She gazed challengingly at the captain, and walked out of the cabin to the deck. The captain would have given much to prevent this disobedience to his commands, but at the moment could think of no method of doing so. He limited the expression of his feelings to a grunt. Hearing the grunt behind her, Harriet turned back into the cabin and, smiling very agreeably, said to the captain:

"Captain!"

"Miss?"

"You may grunt."

The permission to the captain being gracefully accorded, she finally quitted the cabin.

The night was persistently exquisite in its balmy and moonlit freshness. The zephyr, now on the quarter, gently flirted with Harriet's cheek. The great yacht urged its solitary way through the calm water, masterless, without a purpose, at the mercy of a preposterous jack-in-office who was losing his head because there was no supreme authority to call him Joe and rule him. Harriet felt sorry even for the yacht. And sorriest of all, most disquieted, for herself.

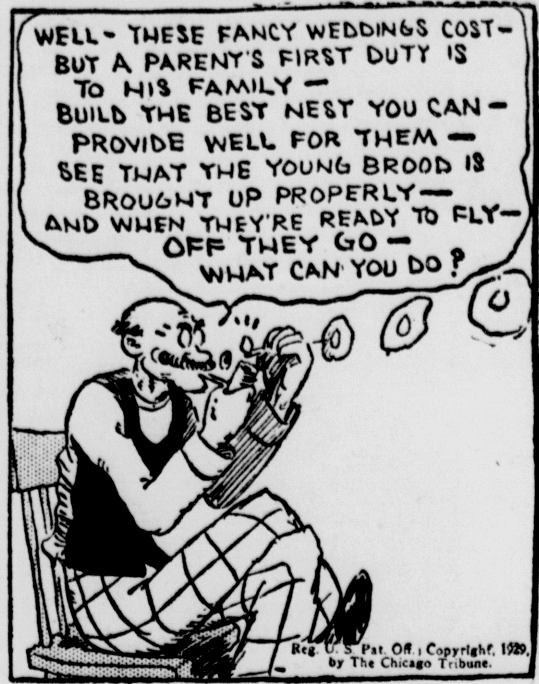

"I've simply nothing to wear tomorrow morning!" she exclaimed tragically in her soul.

"BARKER" PROVES COLORFUL STORY

Every once in a while a picture comes along that takes us completely out of ourselves and transports us into a new and unfamiliar environment. For a time we live the lives of the players in the story, suffer vicariously and joy with them in their triumphs.

Such a picture is "The Barker," which opened last night at the Caramba theater. It is a George Fitzmaurice special production for First National, and has Milton Sills in the title role as the spic in the little third-rate carnival troupe. Sills has never given better work to a role. It is shaded so finely, restrained where needed and flamboyant where the characterization demanded expressiveness.

Dorothy Mackall is costarred as the girl Lou. She plays the part with just the proper degree of abandonment, the pathetic desire for a clean atmosphere and a real love is expressed with delicacy and comprehension.

Betty Compson is admirable as the Barker's sweetheart, and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. is excellent as the son of the same hardened individual, whose only soft spot is his love for his boy.

The trials and tribulations of the troupe, the internal dissension as a result of the Barker's son falling in love with the carnival girl, Lou, whom he eventually weds, the father's repudiation and final reconciliation, all these things enter into the romantic, whimsical and at times humorous picture. Sylvia Ashton, George Cooper, S. S. Simon, One-Eyed Connolly, John Irwin and others contribute delightful characterizations and the direction by Fitzmaurice again shows his mastery of the art and technique of his profession.

"Owa-Ton-Na Surely a Blessing To Me," Says Local Man

Years of Kidney and Stomach Misery Ended in a Short Time By the Use of This Fine Old Indian Remedy.

As we advance in years and the body loses a great deal of its power to overcome poisons which are constantly endangering health, one must be more careful to conserve recuperative power in order that disease-producing toxins will not get the best of the battle.

Thousands of older people in the declining years of life depend on Owa-Ton-Na as a harmless aid in making nature's work of maintaining good health as easy as possible. Owa-Ton-Na acts as a gentle stimulant to the kidneys, liver and stomach and as a cleanser of the intestinal and urinary tracts. In this way tends to keep the body in good condition. When ill-health does come in older people it seems so much harder to overcome these troubles, than when we are in the prime of life and the recuperative powers of the body are greater.

One of Steubenville's older residents after 20 years of suffering has found in Owa-Ton-Na an aid in the restoration of body health. Mr. James R. Roberts, 315 North 4th Street, this city, at the fine age of 63 says that Owa-Ton-Na has made a big change in him.

Mr. Roberts, who is employed at the J. Greenberg Tailor Shop, says, "For 20 years I have been suffering with kidney disorders. Several times each night I was forced to get up to relieve bladder irritation. This is a very uncomfortable condition and my sleep was always disturbed. I had been troubled with constipation for years and it seems that I was getting worse all the time."

"Headaches and dizzy spells were the result. My appetite was very poor and just didn't seem to have any desire for food. I had frequent attacks of sourness and gas. I just felt tired and worn out all the time. No pep like I should have and I had to force myself to do my work. Although I have only used Owa-Ton-Na a short time I can say it has made a big change in my condition."

Garbo habit with "Flesh and the Devil," and helped it along with "Love."

This Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer film with sound synchronization, which opened at the State theater last night, isn't permitted, however, to depend for its success only upon the glamorous personality of the Swedish star, the charm that is Gilbert's or the story-telling ingenuity that is Arlen's.

To assist them they have an amazingly able group of players which includes Lewis Stone, Hobart Bosworth, Dorothy Sebastian, John Mack Brown and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. And they had Clarence Brown for director.

The result is the pinnacle of entertainment, a goal for which it is apparent, when author, stars, cast and director are considered, that the makers were aiming before a camera was focused, or a set in place.

"A Woman of Affairs" is not only a picture for those who enjoy watching Miss Garbo and Gilbert demonstrate that work before a camera may have compensatory moments. It is a picture for every one who enjoys a good story, a superb cast, and perfect direction.

"CONQUEST" WINS AT AMERICAN

"Conquest," the Warner Brothers' all-Vitaphone special starring Monte Blue and directed by Roy Del Ruth and now showing at the American theater, has no silent sequences. Every foot of it is genuine Vitaphone. It also contains all the natural sound effects, such as the whir of the three great motors of the monoplane that carries Blue and Warner on their dashes to the South Pole, the howling of the wind in the struts—the frightful roar of the Antarctic blizzard and the crash of the falling plane as well as gentle sounds such as whistling—drumming on a stray hat—the telephone bell and the rustle of silken skirts.

"Conquest" is based on the novel, "The Candle in the Wind," by Mary Inlay Taylor. Eve Unsell did the adaptation and C. Graham Baker the scenario. Besides Monte Blue, the cast includes H. B. Warner, Lois Wilson, Edmund Breese, Tully Marshall and others.

41 HORSES DIE IN BARN FIRE

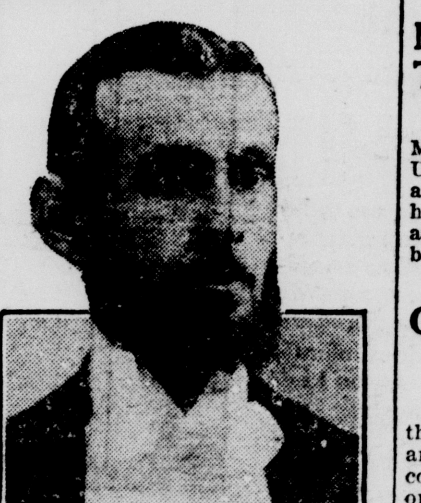

Milk Company Garage Also Destroyed in Columbus.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 5.—A blackened pile of debris gave mute tribute today to the fire that, late yesterday, destroyed the barn and garage of the Hamilton Milk company here, and burned 41 horses to death. The horses were valued at about $200 each.

Firemen, though unable to determine the exact cause of the blaze, said it probably started in a hay pile. Three attendants at the barn failed to save a single horse. The neighboring of the frantic animals, which turned into piercing noises when the flames licked at their sides, could be heard above the roar of the blaze.

The city came to the aid of the milk company. City council was in session last night, and that body immediately voted the loan of 40 municipally-owned horses, so that the milk company could complete its deliveries this morning.

Farmers of Denmark, who have had almost continuous trouble since the World war, are rejoicing over high prices for the products of the last bounteous harvest.

Mr. James R. Roberts

"My appetite is wonderful, food doesn't distress me any more. My bowels act normally and when I get up in the morning, I feel refreshed and ready to do a real day's work. My kidneys don't bother me near as much and I know it won't be long until I am rid of that misery. I can certainly recommend this fine old Indian Remedy, Owa-Ton-Na to anyone who is not feeling just right."

What Mr. Roberts says, thousands of people say about Owa-Ton-Na all over the broad land. Many of these people have tried many remedies and expensive treatments without avail but found in Owa-Ton-Na the relief they had been seeking.

You, too, may find in Owa-Ton-Na just the medicine you have been looking for. Why not call today at Carnahan's Drug Store where a special laboratory representative is explaining the merits of this fine old Indian remedy? This service is free and incurs no obligation. Owa-Ton-Na is also obtainable at Carnahan's End Store and Newell, W. Va. Store.

BIBLE READING MEASURE GOES TO COMMITTEE

Attempt to Kill Weaver Bill in Assembly Fails.

VOTE, 99 TO 13
State Senate and House Reconvene at 1:30.

BY C. H. HADDON.
COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 5.—After an unsuccessful attempt had been made to kill it, the Weaver bill providing for Bible reading in the Public schools was in the hands of the house schools committee today.

By a vote of 99 to 13, the house last night rejected the motion of Representative Joseph Ehrlich, Cuyahoga county, that the recommendation of the house reference committee that this bill be referred to the schools committee be disapproved. Ehrlich previously moved that the house indefinitely postpone further consideration of the Weaver bill. Speaker O. C. Gray, however, ruled the motion out of order.

The senate and house will reconvene at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon.

The senate referred to the senate committee on public works and state buildings the bill by Senator Robert Hohe, Tiffin, providing for a state office building commission. The commission will be provided for a state department of conservation was sent to the senate conservation committee. The Waitt bill providing for a new state reformatory on the Grafton farm, Lorain county, went to the senate institutions committee.

The Sharp bill providing for levying an excise tax on amusements was referred to the house taxation committee. The house, by a vote of 110 to 1, passed the Sanborn bill legalizing federal reserve bank notes for payment of state and county treasurers. The bill now goes to the senate.

RUNNING ICE AND LOW WATER HIT SHIPPING

Ohio River Reaches
Stage of 7.5 Feet
At Noon.

REPAIR WICKETS

Sand Company Will Erect Hoist at Steubenville.

The Ohio river reached a stage of 7.5 feet at noon today and is falling one-tenth foot every six hours, lock men at dam No. 8 reported.

Ice in the river prevents raising the wickets which are being repaired.

Shipping is being hampered by running ice and low water and as a result a number of tows containing manufactured steel products are unable to leave the Pittsburgh harbor. The steamer Carbon of the Wheeling Steel Corporation is tied up at Point Pleasant and it is expected that the steamer Transporter, on her way to Steubenville with a tow of empties, will be unable to leave Louisville.

The steamer Ed J. Howard of the Howard Shipyards, Jeffersonville, was chartered by the Wheeling Steel corporation to tow in the Wheeling harbor. If there is no immediate rise in the rivers it will be impossible for the steamer Aliquippa to reach the local harbor. The latter steamer was tied up at the Jeffersonville yards, where 17 wheel arms were replaced. The accident occurred in the Portland canal, when a windstorm backed the boat into a submerged canal wall.

Towing Chains in Demand.

The R. Gracey and Sons Company received an order from a coal concern in the lower Ohio river to furnish 12 towing chains and 12 ratchets. The equipment is to be shipped from Pittsburgh by river.

The Marine Manufacturing & Supply Company received an order from the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation to furnish 20 large sized hand capstans. A new drive and shaft pinion is being made for the motor towboat W. C. Kelly, also a throttle valve for the steamer P. M. Pfeil. An order was received to furnish stack hinges for the steamers Vesta, B. F. Jones and H. A. Laughlin.

Captain W. C. Lepper of Cincinnati, insurance underwriter inspector, who was confined to a Cairo hospital, recovered and left for Jeffersonville to make an inspection of the tug boat Emily Jung, which sank near Louisville, and now is being repaired at the Howard shipyards. Crookshank & Cole are laying a main deck for the packet Betsy Ann.

U. S. Wants Barge Bids.

The United States engineers of the Cincinnati district will open bids February 18 for the construction of 16 piers and 300 sections of electrically welded pipe to be used in connection with a suction dredge.

Major Jarvis J. Bain, Pittsburgh district engineer, stated yesterday that the Keystone Sand & Supply Company is asking for a federal permit to construct a derrick hoist on the right bank of the Ohio river at Steubenville. It also is expected to complete the replacing of tracks and repairing of the gates at Lock No. 4, Ohio river, by Thursday.

It was reported today that the Youngstown river is frozen over and gorges at West Newton, the pools at No. 4, No. 7, No. 10 and 15, Monongahela river are frozen, while it was stated that the Allegheny river is frozen across from No. 4, on up with heavy ice.

CRITICS LAUD 'MY MARYLAND'

Musical Romance Stands
Out as Shubert
Hit.

The musical romance "My Maryland" which comes to the Ceramic theater, Thursday, Feb. 14, by the author of "Blossom Time" and "The Student Prince" has been proclaimed by all the leading critics in all the cities visited to be the best operetta seen on any stage in many a day, and is destined to break all records for popularity. "My Maryland" evokes a response from everyone for whom youth, adventure and patriotism form a part.

The note of youth and the charm of young love are redolent in this quaintly delightful love story laid in the days of the Blue and the Gray, with the graceful crinolines and the fascinating story of a Southern girl's love for her Northern captain.

"My Maryland" is the result of the Messrs. Shubert's workmanship at their best and it stands out above all their former presentations.

This Sigmund Romberg-Dorothy Donnelly musical gem will take its place with their other musical hits for they have given to the American stage the everlasting "Blossom Time" and "The Student Prince," so all lovers of good music can feel assured that "My Maryland" with its stupen-

"KONJOLA WENT TO THE SOURCE OF MY AILMENTS"

Complication of Disease
Reigned Unchecked For Two Years—New Medicine Brings First Relief.

MR. LEWIS STEWART.

"Konjola went right to the source of my ailments; ailments that had defied and defeated every other treatment tried in two years," said Mr. Lewis Stewart, Osburn, Ohio, near Dayton. "Two bottles of Konjola made a new man of me."

"A combination of stomach, liver, and kidney troubles had just made a wreck of me. I was under weight, nervous, and tired all the time. My stomach was in a highly acid condition, nothing digested, gas formed, bloating followed. Bilious spells were frequent, black spots danced before my eyes. Kidney pains pierced my body like knives. I was in this condition when I started taking Konjola."

"This medicine went to work at once and I could feel its beneficial effects. Day by day my stomach became stronger, my liver began to function as it should, as did the kidneys. Within a week I tried a regular meal, and to my delight, I digested without ill effects. Today I feel better than in years, and I am taking on weight and strength. No wonder Konjola is called the master medicine."

Konjola is sold in East Liverpool, O., at Carnahan's drug store and by all the best druggists throughout this entire section.—Adv.
